I am beyond excited to have the privilege of working alongside the amazing group of advisors, admin staff, and of course the students at Seven Oaks Met! I graduated from the University of Winnipeg with a Bachelor of Education. The most important thing to me is creating an advisory that allows every student to know that they are each a puzzle piece that fits into this world and that what they do matters and makes a difference. I aim to make my advisory a wonderful, exciting, and welcoming place to be where students are able to learn in the way that best suits them. I believe students can learn best when they are able to have hands-on-experiences and can relate it to the real world around them.

I am passionate about learning inside and outside of the classroom many of my friends and family would call me a nerd if they were to describe me. I am the granddaughter of a Residential School survivor, and I am very passionate about the Truth and Reconciliation Commission and incorporate it into my teachings as an educator but also connecting with my indigenous roots outside of the classroom. I enjoy playing and watching sports especially soccer and rugby. I strongly resonate with the quote “no risk, no story” while we may not always get the result we want we have a story to share and learn from once we have tried. I am committed to being a lifelong learner and I cannot wait to learn everyone’s story and learn with and from the people within the community as we grow together.
